[Reasons for Non-compliance with the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

Updated

We comply with all principles set forth in the Corporate Governance Code as amended in June 2021, including those applicable only to companies listed on the Prime Market on and after April 4, 2022.

[Disclosure Based on the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

Updated

Principle 1.4

<Cross-Shareholding Policy and Objectives>

To improve the group's corporate value in a sustainable manner, the Company may hold shares for strategic purposes when deemed necessary, taking into account the maintenance and strengthening of business relationships and business strategies.

The rationality of our cross-shareholdings is reviewed by the department in charge. This department examines whether the earnings from related transactions and dividends received are commensurate with the internal hurdle rate based on the cost of capital, as well as the prospects for business expansion and synergies. The department also considers whether the stable supply of services essential to the group's corporate activities can be expected in the future. The board of directors reviews the results of this examination on an annual basis. In cases where shareholdings are deemed other than rational, the Company will proceed with the sale of such shares in stages, taking into consideration various circumstances, to reduce the size of the holding.

<Exercising of Voting rights>

We exercise voting rights appropriately, carefully reviewing the resolution in question and determining approval or disapproval in a comprehensive manner according to whether the measure contributes to the increased share price of the issuing company and whether the measure contributes to our own improved corporate value as a shareholder.

Principle 1.7

Before engaging in transactions with directors or major shareholders, the Company determines whether said transaction requires a resolution of the board of directors according to the Company's Board of Director Regulations or Regulations Governing Approvals.

Supplementary Principle 2.4(1)

We believe that in order to achieve sustained growth for the NAGASE Group, including our overseas and manufacturing companies, it is essential to appoint and support the activities of human resources with diversity in gender, nationality, professional background, and specialty who will be core drivers of reform. With this, we are actively promoting the creation of a foundation empowering diverse human resources, including the development of overseas Group employees and their promotion to managerial roles, and mid-career hiring of highly specialized human resources. In particular, our policy in the executive officer system is to promote the appointment of women, non-Japanese, and mid-career hires, making them core drivers within the NAGASE Group. In FY2022, we appointed five new executive officers.

We will continue to empower diverse human resources and appoint them as core drivers of our businesses by expanding options for work styles and workplaces, and providing training programs and challenging opportunities to support voluntary career development. These come as part of our basic policy to actively support skills and career development and provide a comfortable and safe workplace that fosters creativity.

Principle 2.6

The Company has adopted a contract-type defined benefit pension plan, establishing and managing an Asset Management Committee which serves as a body to provide basic policies for plan management, establish policies for plan asset composition, and review said policies. The Asset Management Committee is also responsible for evaluating and reviewing the contracted investment institution.

This contracted investment institution includes the Company's labor union and uses outside consultants in plan management, ensuring transparency and objectivity. The committee manages the plan appropriately to ensure no conflicts of interest occur between plan beneficiaries and the Company.

Further, the Company has established Operating Regulations for Corporate Pension Asset Management Committee to prevent any conflicts of interest. The Company appoints a plan manager who is well-experienced in finance and investing. This individual develops greater expertise through the guidance of outside consultants and performs regular monitoring of the investment institution.

Principle 3.1

We continue to strengthen corporate governance, as the Company believes that speed in decision-making and action and ensuring transparency are essential for executing the initiatives described above.

Supplementary Principle 3.1 (3)

We recognize that sustainability initiatives are an important management issue. When we formulated our ACE 2.0 medium-term management plan, announced in May 2021, we analyzed the external environment and identified the most important issues for NAGASE and our shareholders: technological innovation, climate change and resource shortages, demographic changes, and industrial reorganization. We identified materialities based on the value we offer to stakeholders. With respect to climate change and resource shortages in particular, we established the Carbon Neutral Project under the Sustainability Committee. With respect to climate change and resource shortages in particular, we established the Carbon Neutral Project under the Sustainability Committee. Supplementary Principle 4.1(1)

The board of directors functions to oversee business operations and make decisions regarding important business matters. The board also make decisions about important management issues, as well as important operational issues as provided by laws, relations, and the Company's articles of incorporation. The Company has established standards for those matters to be decided by the president, the director in charge, division general managers, or supervisory departments. We have established systems that clarify the division of responsibilities, allowing for speed in business management. We clearly define these standards in Board of Director Regulations and Regulations Governing Approvals.

Principle 4.9

The Company selects candidates according to independent standards provided by the financial instruments exchange, as well as the ability to raise issues to be addressed by the Company from the standpoint of our stakeholders and society.

Supplementary Principle 4.10(1)

As advisory bodies to the board of directors, the Company has established the Compensation Committee and the Nomination Committee, the majority of which consists of outside directors. Outside directors and outside members of the Audit & Supervisory Board meet the criteria for independence. We believe these individuals are fully capable of fulfilling the role to ensure the independence, objectivity, and, and transparency with respect to the nomination and compensation of the Company's management team at present. The Compensation Committee deliberates the design of compensation packages for directors and executive officers. The Nomination Committee deliberates the knowledge, experience, and abilities required of directors, as well as the diversity of the composition of the board of directors, specific proposals regarding appointments, and succession plans. Each committee provides reports and advice to the board of directors as necessary. In this way, these committees enhance the objectivity and transparency of the management nomination process within the Company.

The board of directors is composed of internal directors with business experience, knowledge, and expertise, and outside directors who have management experience, mainly at other companies, and who can raise issues based on the perspectives of stakeholders and society. This composition ensures that the board understands the status of business execution, can make decisions in a flexible and prompt manner, and can supervise business execution.

Under this basic policy, the board of directors consists of nine members, including three outside directors who are independent directors. More than one-third of the board of directors is composed of independent outside directors. Further, the Company pursues diversity in management, regardless of gender, nationality, or race. We believe we have secured a certain level of diversity in terms of gender and internationality, including the appointment of one female director. As well, many of our directors have worked overseas for several years (an average of six years of overseas service among our internal directors). The skills matrix for the board of directors, which indicates the roles and expertise required by NAGASE of its directors, is disclosed in notices of annual shareholders' meetings and is also posted on the Company's website.

Supplementary Principle 4.11(2)

The Company discloses the significant concurrent duties (including service as directors of other publicly traded corporations) performed by directors, members of the Audit & Supervisory Board, and candidates thereof on an annual basis in disclosure documents including shareholders' meeting convocation notice reference materials, business reports, and annual securities reports. The Company believes that the number of companies in which directors perform concurrent services is within a reasonable scope.

Supplementary Principle 4.11(3)

The Company analyzes and evaluates the effectiveness of the board of directors, believing in the importance of improving board effectiveness on an annual basis. In order to more proactively elicit frank opinions, we conduct anonymous surveys with all directors and Audit & Supervisory Board members. In addition, survey results are collected, aggregated, and analyzed by a third-party organization to eliminate arbitrary elements, ensuring transparency in the evaluation methodology.

As a result, the Company confirmed that our Board of Directors conducts appropriate and timely deliberations and decision-making, functioning effectively.

The status of issues recognized in the previous fiscal year is as follows.

For the optimization of providing agenda information for consideration prior to meetings, the operational secretariat has worked to make improvements in prior distribution awareness and material quality. On the other hand, new issues have been identified, such as reviews of material structure, and we will continue to work toward improvement.

For providing better feedback and follow-up, we took actions and worked to make improvements, such as including reports to the board of directors when follow-up was deemed necessary, depending on the content of the agenda item or other matter in question.

For further discussions to secure diversity in the composition in the board of directors over the medium to long term, we worked to make improvements by appointing of one new director with expertise in manufacturing/research and development and by the formulating and publishing a skills matrix.

On the other hand, from the perspective of making the board of directors meeting a forum for more robust deliberation and discussion, we had ample discussions regarding the Group's strategy and future vision when the ACE 2.0 medium-term management plan was formulated. Here, we confirmed that we need to secure further discussion opportunities on the Group's overall direction even after this plan was formulated.

The Company intends to continue with initiatives for improving board of director effectiveness.

Supplementary Principle 4.14(2)

The Company provides information related to the NAGASE Group Management Philosophy, corporate management, business activities, and organization to outside directors and outside members of the Audit & Supervisor Board. In this way, we help these individuals gain a deeper understanding of these topics.

The Company also provides opportunities at the Company's expense to help directors and members of the Audit & Supervisory Board (including outside directors and outside members) obtain the necessary knowledge to accomplish their roles and responsibilities.

Principle 5.1

Our basic policy is to conduct constructive dialogue with shareholders that contributes to sustainable growth and corporate value improvement over the medium and long term. As much as reasonable, we respond to meeting requests from shareholders the purpose of holding constructive dialogues.

Nobuyuki Shirafuji	○	In the past, Mr. Shirafuji worked for the Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corporation, one of the Company's banks. Although the Company maintains an outstanding loan from the bank in question, the loan balance was less than 4.7% of Company's total assets as of the end of the fiscal year ended March 2022.	Mr. Shirafuji possesses a wide range of knowledge based on his many years of experience at overseas financial institutions. He also has many years of experience related to audits and working in audit departments, earning considerable knowledge regarding finance and accounting. Incentive Policies for Directors

Performance-linked Remuneration

Supplementary Explanation

Updated

The Company has determined a policy related to decisions on amounts and calculation methods for director remuneration after recommendations from the Compensation Committee, which consists of at least half outside directors, and deliberations by the board of directors. This basic policy ensures compensation is commensurate with the role and scope of responsibilities for each director, taking into consideration objective external data and business conditions, and that compensation serves as a standard for motivation to improve ongoing corporate value. Here, the target ratio for each remuneration type is monetary fixed (basic) remuneration between 50% and 70% to monetary performance-linked remuneration between 25% and 40% to non-monetary performance-linked remuneration between 5% and 10%, presuming 100% achievement of performance targets.

We selected profit attributable to owners of the parent, a measure of bottom-line profit, as an indicator for performance-linked remuneration and as an incentive to improve business results. We have also selected return on equity (ROE) as an incentive to improve capital efficiency. We calculate performance-linked remuneration based on profit attributable to owners of the parent by determining the basic amount of performance-linked remuneration based on consolidated earnings forecasts at the beginning of the period, multiplied by the ratio of net income to net income results of the previous fiscal year, and multiplied by performance compared with the consolidated earnings forecast at the beginning of the fiscal year, adjusted by individual assessments. Net income for the fiscal year ended March 2022 amounted to 25.9 billion yen. Remuneration based on ROE is calculated based on the degree of achievement of each fiscal year's target, with targets set for each fiscal year toward achieving the final target values in the medium-term management plan. ROE for the fiscal year ended March 2022 was 7.7%.
